

AMENDMENTS TO THE SPECIFICATION

Paragraph [0087] of the specification

- 5 [0087] One distinct feature of the invention is that the directory server views look like any other entry, and their hierarchies look like any other hierarchy. The fact that a view ~~is a view~~ is transparent to the client application ~~and requires~~ means that no special knowledge of the views is required to use them. The attribute means that they can be put to work in existing installations and can be
- 10 used by existing custom clients and third party vendor clients alike, including the command line utilities shipped with the directory server.
